March 22, 2018

8:30 a.m. – 3:00 p.m.

Robert will help you understand what real world problem-based lessons are all about and why it is so critical that we use them with our students. The session will focus on hands-on classroom implementation from both the teacher and students' perspectives.

Robert will also explain Depth of Knowledge as well as using Open Middle problems to build procedural skills and conceptual understanding.

Participants will leave with access to hundreds of free problems that are ready for student implementation.

TARGET AUDIENCE:

Grades 6-12 Teachers, Coaches, Coordinators, and Administrators
