

Supporting Communicative Competence in a Multi-Tier System of Support

Presented By: Jodie Dittmar, M.S.— Fresno Diagnostic Center

This workshop will consider opportunities for addressing communicative competence in all environments (from social to home to general education to functional skills). The workshop will define “communicative competence” and give examples of measuring and addressing it in group and individual learning.

This workshop can be adapted to the needs of a particular age, grade or learner group in general or special education or for a particular participant group (i.e. parents, Early Start, EL support staff; functional skill settings, paraeducators, etc.).

Participants will be able to:

- Define Communicative Competence as it relates to Common Core academic and functional skills
- Enhance communicative competence development in social and classroom activities
- Gain resources for evidence based supports within Multi-Tier Systems of Support (MTSS) or if applicable, early childhood home or day care settings

Target Audience:

Special Ed Teachers, General Ed Teachers, Speech Language Pathologists, School Psychologists, Administrators, School Nurses, Adapted PE Specialists, Program Specialists, SELPA Directors, Parents, and Paraprofessionals.
